The Talisman range of Bagloc single trip security envelopes offer optimum security protection for transporting or storing sensitive and / or high value items. All sizes are available in a white material, with two sizes also available in clear material, which allows the content to be viewed without opening the envelope. Security is achieved by the adhesive strip across the top of the envelope, and once sealed, the envelope will display a "void" message when opened, giving visible indication of any tampering. The standard envelopes are supplied with a serial number printed on the body, which makes each envelope unique, and the same serial number is printed on the receipt section, which is used for recording each envelope.
